ZMATH 2009b.00088
Eggermont, Hilde
The maths B-day: a report. (De wiskunde-B-dag: een verslag.)

Summary: A Flemish school participated to the Dutch maths B-day: a competition for small groups of pupils who take a whole day to solve a set of mathematical problems to about a certain context (some small problems and a larger open problem). The use of books and computers is allowed. They have to write a text about the found solutions. The best reports of the school are sent to the competition jury. In this article, the teacher describes this day in her school and the difficulties of pupils to write a good text about mathematics.

Classification: B60
Keywords: student competitions; writing in the mathematics classroom