

ZMATH 2012f.00455

Hansen-Smith, Bradford

Rich learning tasks occupies the body, feeds the mind, touches the spirit.

Rogerson, Alan, The Mathematics Education into the 21st Century Project: The future of mathematics education. , (ISBN 83-919465-4-1). 55-59 (2004).

Summary: Formal education is primarily an activity that isolates the mind, gives little to engage the body and mostly fails to touch the spirit.

Classification: D50 D40

Keywords: teaching methods; problem posing; motivation