

ZMATH 2016f.01213

Lenard, Christopher; McCarthy, Sally; Mills, Terence

Ethics in statistics.

Aust. Sr. Math. J. 28, No. 1, 38-42 (2014).

Summary: There are many different aspects of statistics. Statistics involves mathematics, computing, and applications to almost every field of endeavour. Each aspect provides an opportunity to spark someone's interest in the subject. In this paper we discuss some ethical aspects of statistics, and describe how an introduction to ethics has been incorporated into teaching elementary statistical methods at La Trobe University, Bendigo. (ERIC)

Classification: K40 K70 K80 D20 E20

Keywords: ethics; statistics