Research in mathematics education in Australasia 1996 - 1999.

, (ISBN 0-646-39394-4). 390 p. (2000).

The current review reports on mathematics education research reported in Australasia (The term Australasia is used generally by authors to include Australians, New Zealanders, those from Pacific Islands, Melanesia, and some South-East Asian countries), or conducted by Australasians and reported elsewhere, during 1996-1999. The primary purpose of the review is to indicate the scope and focus of mathematics education research conducted in this part of world, and to identify sources for researchers who may wish to examine particular aspects of the research in more detail. The articles of this review are reviewed in ZDM/MATHDI individually.
